KEYNOTE LECTURE

WHAT A TEACHER MUST CONSIDER
TO MAKE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT
EFFECTIVE AND ENGAGING

効果的で魅力的な学習環境を作るために
教師として考えるべきこと

SUZUKI Katsuaki, Ph.D.

Professor and Director,
Research Center for Instructional Systems,
Kumamoto University, Japan

Instructional Design (ID) is a toolbox that could resolve problems faced by teachers who struggle with their everyday teaching duties. Some of these challenges may include school children being forced to learn Japanese of which they have no interest in or university students who opted for the subject do not view it as a gateway to their further studies or career advancement.

In this keynote, teachers shall be introduced to ID as a useful tool in improving educational practices as well as resolving some of their challenges. Hopefully, teachers may draw hints from some of the hands-on experience to improve their classes.

Keynote lecture will be conducted fully in Japanese.
